It is encouraging to learn that the general health of the city is better now than thas been for a long time past. There have been no new cases of cholers on the Moravia, and those reported to have occurred in the city turn out to have been stacks of diarrhos and severe cramps, ought on by imprudence in eating calculated and certain to produce such sick ness at any time.

The writer of the Philadelphia Times has probably been misted by having pointed out to him some particular young woman from a watering place who has been "written up " by some wateringplace correspondent as his ideal of loveliness. Many of these correspondents are taken possession of by a little clique and induced to waste adjectives on the alleged beauty of a very inferior specimen of female comeliness. We sometimes read of " the most beautiful young lady of the season" at some resort, who is really one of the homeliest, and whose insignificant, dowdy appearance throws her far into the shade in comparison with scores of her companious.

Clothing for the Baby.

Nothing is more detrimental to the health and herves than the habit which a great many bables acquire from their parents of turning night into day. Another important matter to consider is the clothing of a child in summer. It is a great mistake to believe that the lightest clothing is the coolest. The forgers who work before furnace fires in heat of Summer are compelled to wear flannel shirts to absorb the perspiration and assist in keeping them cool. So the baby will be much more comfortable it he also wear a light flannel skirt to serve the same purpose A taby should certainly wear his flannel handage 191 after his second Summer. We. know a great many mothers take off this bandage when the child is six months old. but this is a mistake. The bandage serves to keep the abdomen warm and prevents diveases of the stomach, to which the young child is peculiarly liable. It is also desirable that the child should wear light woollen stockings till after his second Summer.

Beautifying the Eyes.

Methods of beautifying the eyes have long been in vogue among women of fashion and not a few resort to those which uitimately inture the organs and the general health. A Fan Luncheon. An original outdoor luncheon was given the ther day at a chateau not far from Paris. The sixteen guests were seated at four willow tables, the tops of which represented an open fan. Over the tables were fan-shaped canopies of colored silk. The menu was written on small paper fans, the sticks being of enamel and tied with ribbon. Blue was used at the forget-me-not table, plak at the resebud green at the fern and white at the dalsy table. The individual lees were served in the form of small paim-leaf fans; the favors were silk surprise fans, the handles of each containing a souvenir. The gay colors of the odd-shaped tables resting upon the smooth, grassy lawn made an effective picture.

Creamed Fish.

To make creamed fish, any white fish which flakes easily may be used. Cusk, cod and haddock are especially recommended. Cook the fish fifteen or twenty minutes by gentle boiling; then remove the flesh carefully from the bones, letting it separate lightly tate flakes; season with pepper and salt and a few

For every pint of prepared, fish make a rich cream sauce with four tablespoons of butter, two of flour and a pint of rich milk in which small slice of enion has been boiled. Pour it over the seasoned fish, rolling all together gently so that the flakes may not be broken. Arrange on a platter, sprinkle the top with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven twenty or thirty minutes. Aspeck of enyenne s a good addition to make to the sauce.

This is a delicious and wholesome way of cooking fish for the sick. The butter is so thoroughly incorporated with the flour of the sauce that it becomes one of the few very easily digested forms of cooked fat.

Cottage Cheese.

One quart of thick sour milk, one teaspoonful of butter, one salt-speenful of salt, one tablespoonful of cream. Place the milk in a pan on the back of the stove and scald it until the curd has separated from the whey, Spread a strainer cloth over a bowl, pour in the milk. lift the edges of the cloth and draw them together; drain or wring quite dry. Put h e curd to a small bowl with the butter, sait and cream ; nex it to a smooth paste with a spoon. Take a teaspoonful and roll in the hand into a smooth ball. Or, make the whole into a little mould on a class dish. Herve with cream or cream and sugar.

Protection from Moths.

Says a New England housekeeper: "Do you know the secret of not baving Winter clothing moth caten? Get a whisker barrel and have the top taken off and drive a large peg in the top for a handle to the cover, so that you can easily take it off. Then put in he bottom of the barrel a small, open vial of chloroform. Put in your weetlen things and ready to hatch, the insects will die and do no barm. If you want a garment for an evening drive or a chilly day, take it out and use it, the moth line will disturb it."

Tapestry Picture for the World's Fair.

Mrs. J. F. Jenkins of Los Angeles, Cal., is preparing for exhibition at the World's Pair a tapestry picture representing the surrender of Mary Queen of Scots to the Confederate Lords in 1567. The study is 6 by 4 feet, and will contain when completed. the figures of thirty-five men and woman, four horses, four banners, a large tree, with a foreground of grass, shrubbery and other accessories. The Queen is mounted on a horse elegantly nurnle. Mounted attendants follow, being Highlanders in bright Scotch plaids with battle axes and spears. Mrs. Jenkins began her work eight years ago.

Elaborate Coiffures for Fall.

It is said that for evening in the country season claborate coffures, with curls on the neck, will be worn. Velvet ribbon knotted is still much worn, and black velvet is often seen in the daytime twisted through the coils and thei on top of the head at the beginning of the parting. Around the face the locks are arranged at will, as little friz as possible being the favorite, but to most features a slight softening is required. Elderly women dress their hair more elaborately than young girls, and are allowed quite as much liberty in the way of soft friezes and curls around the face.
